Dear Sir/Madam,

Subject: Request for article contribution to VIII issue of Journal on Governance, National Law University, Jodhpur.

Greetings!

National Law University, Jodhpur, established in the year 2001, is a top tier law school in India. During the past decade, the University has been scaling new heights through, inter alia, milestone achievements in national and international publications, international moot court competitions, academic pursuits, student placements with international organizations of the stature of the International Court of Justice, extraordinary industry performances and professional excellence.

Centre for Governance is a research hub under the rubrics of National Law University, Jodhpur, dedicated to research and development of governance standards for the corporate world. To this end, the Centre has been instrumental in making recommendations to India's securities market regulator, the Securities and Exchange Board of India, on regulatory reforms and various consultation publications. A few of the Center's such endeavours include comments on the consultative paper on the SEBI's suggested Clause 49 reforms, followed by a panel discussion involving eminent stalwarts like Padmabhushan Shri D.R. Mehta (Founder Chairman, SEBI), and Ms. Usha Narayanan (Former Executive Director, SEBI, and currently partner, Amarchand & Mangaldas & Suresh A Shroff & Co.).

One another effort of the Centre towards the governance mission is its annual publication, the Journal on Governance, which, since its inception in the year 2008, has received wide circulation and acclaim in the industry and academia. Journal on Governance offers a forum for critical research on interplay of contemporary corporate governance issues with other disciplines, including, inter alia, law, management and societal studies. Aside to highlighting the problems and the challenges, the Journal attempts to explore and offer workable solutions, which may be helpful in regulatory and policy decisions.

Our previous issues of the Journal boast of scholarly discourses from eminent legal practitioners, academicians, research scholars and students. The articles for publication are selected through a meticulous and intense process of review, edit and refinement. The Journal has received appreciation from all contours of the industry and academia.

Continuing with its perseverance, the Centre proposes the VIII issue of the Journal now. For the forthcoming issue, the Center will be delighted to receive your contribution on any of the sub-themes under the broad theme of "Evolving Dynamics of Governance" specified in the attachment, which also lists the detailed guidelines for the article submission.

In view of your expertise in this discipline, the Center looks forward to receiving your scholarly contribution towards yet another accomplishment of the Journal on Governance, in demystifying the governance institution.

Yours sincerely,

(Prof. (Dr.) U.R. Daga)
